Decal, collaboration with Micro Scale

VA-75(Attack Squadron 75) "Sunday Punchers"

VA-75 (Attack Squadron 75) was originally established as VB-18 (Bombing Squadron 18) in July, 1943. They used the SBD Dauntless at that point then later changed to the SB2C Helldiver. They fought in the Philippines then Leyte and Okinawa. After WWII, they changed to the F4U-4 Corsair. When they were renamed to VA-75 in 1950, they were using the AD-4 Skyraider. They were deployed to the Korean War on the USS Bon Homme Richard in 1952. VA-75 received the AD-6 in 1955 and they voyaged to the Mediterranean Sea on the USS Independence. This decal recreates the AD-6 (which was renamed A-1H after September 1962) around this time period. In 1965, VA-75 changed to the Grumman A-6 Intruder, a jet-engine attack aircraft, and they were deployed to the Vietnam War. They kept using A-6 and were also deployed to the Gulf War in 1991. VA-75 was deactivated at the NAS Oceana on February 28, 1997, drawing a curtain over their more than 50-year history.
