Wooden Painting

Mask the area (painting every mold of the panel will give a more realistic effect) around the surface where you want to use the wooden painting, then base coat with a wooden-light color and let it dry.

After the base coat has dried, press the Wood Grain Photo-Etched Mask on the part making sure it doesn’t move, and then use your airbrush just once to paint with a darker wooden-color and recreate the grain pattern.

Once you are sure the darker color has completely dried out, remove the masking gently and the work is done. Change the pattern or the masking position on each panel and paint.
